THE DECLARATION OF LOVEDEPENDANCE

Sero Devaryq

No eye has seen, no ear has heard, no mind has conceived what The One has prepared for those who Love.

Corinthians 2:9

Dedicated to Ilse, eternally grateful for your teachings, guidance, and encouragement to remain free.

Most of us want to hear romantic tragedies or comedies to which we can identify with, use them as an inspiration to respond to our own internal questions and create new narratives that can promise some certain sense of hope towards the future.

Somehow when the writer can present it's own fragility, the reader can empathize with that self exposed vulnerability and when that happens it is easier for the reader to agree with the author's proposals.

In this case, I will avoid that path and I will aim to go as straight to the point as possible.

What I intend to present here is a practical method for applied creation, there are many wonderful books that have been made for the same reason, from the ancient so called sacred scriptures to the most contemporary and popular self help bestsellers as The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People by Stephen Covey to mention one.

As I was reading many of them I learned a lot and I don't pretend to present a quick fix or an alternative that can replace the wisdom presented in them, to the contrary, I consider that is very valuable to read them and even more important to comprehend them, apply them and if possible understand what is written between the lines and avoid misinterpretations.

Having more than two decades working in several design fields, I take the opportunity to design my books as functional and aesthetically pleasing objects, at least to me as a primary user.

Since I have the freedom to create this project to my taste, I deliberately started by choosing the proportions of the booklet, then I chose the colors, the yellow paper was chosen because it could help us to awaken the visual intensity and in that way our minds might be able to improve the capacity of concentration.

Then I decided that the paper should look like a typical yellow block with horizontal lines to give it a basic style, like if we're going re-enter primary school, in the same basic style I chose the text to be written in blue and red, but I also chose the colors for their symbolism: blue representing receptive energy and red representing active energy and in that way, each one of the sentences is repeated in both colors to feel that one receives and also gives, like in the natural act of breathing.

In the same way that poetry intends to put our emotions, wisdom, and other intangible aspects of life into pleasing proportions, the design of the cover applies the golden ratio and the color palette with the primary colors are presented as the basic ingredients to create all the tones of the spectrum. Both, the chromatic palette and geometric proportions are characteristics that correspond to the Tarot de Marseille.

The best possible way for me to comprehend and remember new ideas is to write them choosing concrete words that carry the meanings I want, in this process I revise and consider their etymology because in their roots lies a pearl of deep wisdom and beauty, In this way of composing I naturally ended up paying more attention to poetry, it thrills me to see that poems can say a lot with very few words arranged in aesthetically pleasing proportions.

Although I do not consider or intend to call these articles poetry, I consider that I made my best effort to choose the words carefully and make the sentences as pleasing as possible.

Our attraction to beauty is imminent, we have been trying to put things in auric proportions for millennia, and i consider that if we feel pleased with something it can potentially bring us somehow closer to what we might call The Truth.

This little book was conceived from the desire to put some things in their place, after going through and applying several esoteric methods for creation, I came across the Tarot de Marseille based on the wisdom of Costa-Jodorowsky-Camoin and after that by pure chance I came across the Parise method of creation called Chancing, the 11 steps of Magic.

I recommend delving into the bibliography and work of those mentioned above for a better understanding and application of what is presented in this material.

After some years of study and application of both methods the multiple times that my mind tried to find concordances between them were countless, at times I gave up on the idea of trying to match them, until the early morning of the first of January of 2020, I woke up from a revealing dream where the Major Arcana themselves spoke to me and I was writing what they said, it all made perfect sense in the lucid dream, I had complete confidence that I could wake up and transcribe them to a real notebook, and I did, I woke up, went to the kitchen table and wrote them all except the 10th and 11th articles, these 2 were not written until the very end of the year, and the text did not come from a lucid dream.

In the dream, I acted as a servant of the court, the mission was for me to transcribe the text with beautiful calligraphy, the scene of the dream was set in some sort of sublime act, it was a serious atmosphere but it was also comic because it was a parody of an act of signing some country's declaration of independence where instead of starting with the freedom of choice, it started with the freedom of no choice, and after that each of the Major Arcana dictated to me what to write and the articles were surprisingly synchronized with the Parise method of creation.

In that setting, the title of the document was presented to me by Le Mat as The Declaration of Lovedependance, I remember asking myself, is that a good thing to do? does it mean to depend on Love? what does that mean? is this something I want to do? I remember researching the etymology of the word and it brought me to the word depend which comes from latin; dependet meaning "quality of one who is below a greater power" built on the sufix de meaning direction and pendere meaning to hang on.

While still in the dream state I responded to myself by saying; I am Love, I am in Love, I am a declared Lover, I can Love limitlessly, with and without object so why couldn't I call it like that? in the end, we all want to Love and be Loved so why not decide to depend on the greater power of Love, a simple yet strangely difficult action.

After the Kitchen transcription with messy unreadable handwriting I went to bed with a sense of complete satisfaction, a feeling that everything was clear and ready to be transcribed. The morning after, I woke up eager to read them and they were not as clear as the night before, but I was still certain that with some patience, time and Love invested along the year, I could manage to find the coherence and beauty I was aiming at.

The year 2020 went on with a series of sphinxes as well as miracles, as I was writing the articles most of the obstacles got resolved, I was writing very slowly due to the lack of time dedicated to such a nonessential activity in an emergency situation, sometimes I would only open the document to just change one word or to draw the tiny cards on the bottom of each page.

As I was writing the article six, I had a shivering experience worth mentioning, what I was writing was happening to me, and I felt goosebumps all over my skin when I understood that the book itself was writing me and not on the contrary.

At that moment I felt a new impulse from La Force, the curiosity to discover how the text can continue to create me and after living that experience I certainly felt that this might be something valid that I want and can share with the world.

The Parise method works, It's a method that is rather easy to understand but is not as easy to apply, but with the support from the Arcana, who are speaking from within you on every article of this document, and with the constant internal revision where one can find oneself in every problem or life situation, the intention is to stop being the spectator of reality and instead, become the protagonist of reality as a writer, director, and main character of the movie of your life.

Now I bless you wishing you the greatest of success on your pilgrimage.
